Re: Officer Charles Villerot

Dear Chief Craft,

Many times administrators only hear about the troubles and indiscretions of their officers. I feel that it is just as important for administrators to hear of the exemplary actions of their officers.

I had the opportunity to view a portion of a Circuit Court Trial; People v. Campbell where Officer Villerot was the "Officer in-Charge."

During my time at court, I watched how Officer Villerot managed the court process, personally dealing with witnesses, the media and handling defense and prosecuting attorney requests with great professionalism. I heard many positive comments from police officers and citizens regarding Officer Villerot's hard work and professional demeanor.

I believe the Troy Police Department and you should be justly proud of Officer Villerot who exemplifies a person of sound mind, good judgment and acts as a positive role model for other police officers to emulate.

Sincerely,

Dan A DeWolf
