Parks and Recreation Month

Since 1985 the month of July has been designated Park and Recreation month by the National Parks and Recreation Association. The purpose is to bring awareness to the social, economical and environmental benefits of parks and recreation.

The recreation department, in cooperation with the parks department has many activities programmed throughout the year but in July, there are special promotions intended to highlight Parks and Recreation month.

Attached please find information about some of the activities during the month of July.

Parks and recreation activities promote the City of Troy, create a sense of community, improve the public perception of the city, have an economic impact as well as benefit individuals and families.

All members of our community are invited to participate in these events.
